

Answers

1. Why do you think lighthouses are sometimes on a raised stand?

I think lighthouses are sometimes on raised stands so the light is higher up and will travel further. It will then be seen more easily.

2. Find and copy another word which means sailor.

Seafarer

3. Why do you think some countries call a lighthouse a Pharos?

I think some countries call a lighthouse a Pharos because they are naming it after the place where the first lighthouse was.

4. 'The first lighthouse was an octagonal structure'. What does the word 'octagonal' mean in this sentence?

The word octagonal means eight-sided.

5. How are sea farers warned of danger?

Lighthouses warn seafarers of danger by using a bright light.

5. In your opinion, why do some seafarers still view lighthouses as a symbol of hope?

Answers may vary. I think seafarers still view lighthouses as a symbol of hope because if they are in danger, they know they are close to land.