

Listen to This and this  Can you say what the main parts of the story are? Draw and sequence what happens. Show this by making a cartoon strip.	Discuss, where in the story the characters showed resilience? What happened? What difficulties did they face along the way? List them. How did they carry on? Have you ever had to show resilience?	At one point, the two characters fell out and disagreed and did not speak for the rest of the evening? Is this the best way to deal with disagreements?  In the past year, what strategies have you used when you are working with someone and they don't agree with you? Looking to next year, what strategies could you use for effective team work?
On their journey to the North Pole, they passed the Shetland Isles. Look at the map of the U.K. (See attachment) Can you list all the Scottish Islands you can see? Can you remember which one Mrs MacLeod comes from 😊	Can you find out which animals live in the North Pole? What do they eat? How do they live? What are icebergs? Create your own Factfile.	The character says that he looked back and it "brought a lump to his throat". What did this mean? How do you think he felt when he looked forward? Think particularly of the end of the story.
There is a twist in this story. What is a twist?  (Do Penguins really live in the North Pole?)  Can you reflect on how the story ended despite all the challenges along the way?	Create your own picture of your favourite part of the story using whatever materials you like.	Can you make the ship the characters sailed in? You might choose to use playdough, bricks or lego? Maybe you could use recycling?
